Probe begins into new shooting as city's 10th homicide confirmed

By NEIL MACKINNON
AND KRISTA SYLVESTER
Metro Calgary

City cops confirmed the shooting death of an 18-year-old man in broad daylight Wednesday as the city's 10th homicide yesterday, and also began to investigate yet another daytime shooting spree.

Levan James Van Der Ross, 18, died of multiple gunshot wounds at Foothills Hospital after the red Jeep Cherokee he and another male, 17, who is still in hospital, were sitting in was riddled with bullets around 2:10 p.m. Wednesday near the intersection of Vandegrift Cr. and Valiant Dr. NW.

The victims weren't known gang members, said Staff Sgt. Kevin Forsen, but police are still investigating any possible gang ties.

"We've talked to a number of people and we're trying to determine exactly what's happened," Forsen said. "We're looking at all possible motives behind it."

Another midday shooting has left community residents concerned, and a city alderman calling for witnesses to speak out.

Van Der Ross

Gunshots rang out yesterday around 2 p.m. on Falconridge Blvd., where police said one car followed another with a suspect standing out the rooftop shooting at a car in front of it.

Duty Insp. Keith Pollock told Metro while police don't believe anyone was hit it is a concern to police when shots are fired.

"Anytime is a bad time, I don't care if it's at midnight or noon. It's never a good time," he said. Ward 10 Alderman Ric McIver, who sits on the Community and Protective Services committee said anytime guns are used it's a concern.

"What we need is citizens coming forward to police and co-operating. Calgarians have a million sets of eyes and police only have 1,600, so it's not too hard to do the math."

Falconridge resident and business owner Patricia Waters said over the past 14 years she has become increasingly concerned with the number of violent incidents.

"It's gotten worse lately, it's just really scary. I'm worried about the area now, it seems like there's always something going on," she said.

Anyone with information on either incident is asked to call Calgary Police at 266-1234.

Bus burns on busy road

No one reported to be injured after morning fire

By ALICIA FOX
for Metro Calgary

A charred and stranded city bus surrounded by emergency crews on a busy Calgary thoroughfare caught the attention of weather-weary drivers on southbound Deerfoot Trail yesterday morning.

Just after 10:30 a.m., the Calgary Fire Department arrived at the scene between McKnight Blvd. and 32 Ave. on Deerfoot south and closed down the two right hand lanes — causing traffic headaches much past McKnight, while firefighters worked to control the flames.

At the time, no one knew how it had started.

"It was on fire, that's all we know," said Reiner Popka, one exhaust pipe overheated, causing the fiberglass rear panel, where the exhaust pipe runs, to ignite. Only the Damage to the bus is estimated at $10,000. No other injuries were reported.

Duo aims to mitigate effects of electricity

By NEIL MACKINNON
Metro Calgary

There's no real respite from the electromagnetic barrage, but Robert Steller hopes to provide some shelter from the electrical storm.

At a University of Calgary conference this weekend, Steller, a building biology environmental consultant and inspector, along with Dr. Bruce Hoffman, will provide some testing tips and hints on how to mitigate the harmful health effects caused by a constant immersion in electrical fields at home, the office, and even cellular phone networks.

"We're not opposed to electricity," Steller said.

"But it emits different fields which the human body is constantly exposed to and we're hoping to clear this up, draw attention to some of the dangers and teach people how to avoid a lot of these things."

Petition seeks Bill C-51 alternatives

By KRISTA SYLVESTER
Metro Calgary

Alternative medicinal practitioners are holding their breath over a proposed bill that would prevent them from practicing.

According to the co-founder of True Hope, a non-profit mental-health support group, Bill C-51 would strip away the rights and livelihood of alternative medicine practitioners.

"The absolute bottom line is they are preventing holistic medical practitioners from practicing.

"It's taking away our rights," Anthony Stephan told Metro.

"It's causing quite the uproar across Canada. It gives government too much control."

The government would remove 70 per cent of natural health products from store shelves and others would require prescriptions, bill's changes

» If passed, the bill would allow inspectors to enter a private property without a warrant at any time and allow them to take property at their discretion, and this without reimbursing the practitioner.

he added. Calgary registered natural medicine practitioner Bettina Fabian just finished school a few months ago and planned to start a business from her home. "Half the business is selling the products. I'm able to make suggestions on what people can take to get better, but now they are trying to take that away," she told Metro. She said the bill would favour the higher-risk medicines from pharmaceutical companies while stripping away research and development of safe alternatives.

Petitioners against the bill are taking to the steps of the Calgary Court Centre at 635 – 8 Ave SW today at 11:45 a.m.

Hand over the keys

Insurers nervous over aging driver population

It's the difficult conversation more families will be having in the next 20 years: When should mom or dad hang up the car keys?

Next to teenagers, senior citizens account for the most traffic fatalities in the country and with the senior citizen population set to more than double and people aged over 80 tripling, the insurance industry, health-care providers and police are warning that the province has to find better ways of assessing when the elderly are no longer fit to drive.

Citizens between 55 and drivers over 80

» Ontario requires a written test every two years once a driver turns 80 — the most rigorous such rule in the country.

70-years-old actually have the lowest car collision rate of any age group. But those 65 and older have the second-highest proportion of road deaths, at 16 per cent, in part because they tend to be frazier. Once people reach 75 they tend to have more medical conditions, such as dementia or mobility loss, that affect their driving, said Mark Yakabuski, president of the Insurance Bureau of Canada. Bernier under fire over ex-girlfriend

Foreign Minister Maxime Bernier faced pressure to quit yesterday, as the opposition questioned his judgment and charged he had had a relationship with a woman who once had ties to organized crime.

"As head of Canada's diplomatic corps ... how can he explain that a relationship with a person who had ties with organized crime would be without consequence?" deputy Liberal leader Michael Ignatieff asked.

Court documents from a 2003 trial say the woman, who accompanied Bernier to his swearing-in ceremony, had been married to a member of a puppet gang of the Hells Angels.

Palestinians mourn, Israelis celebrate

Israel celebrated its 60th birthday with barbecues and military displays yesterday, but the party was marred by an investigation that could unseat the prime minister and derail efforts toward a peace it has never known.

Blue-on-white Star of David flags fluttered from cars and balconies, fighter planes traced "60" in smoke trails across the sky, paratroopers dropped into the sea and a televised youth Bible quiz highlighted the place Jewish faith holds in a state mainly founded by secular Zionists.

Wal-Mart unveils major expansion

RETAIL Wal-Mart is embarking on a major expansion of its food-selling supercentre stores in Canada, posing a bigger threat to Canadian supermarkets which are already cutting prices to keep up.

Wal-Mart said yesterday it will open or expand 25 to 27 stores in Canada by early 2009 and create 6,000 new in-store jobs. More than half of the 25 to 27 projects will be new supercentres. REUTERS

Hard future for lumber

Industry recovery not expected until 2010: Advisor

Canada's lumber industry, already battered by the weak U.S. housing market and the strong Canadian dollar, was warned yesterday to expect more "blood on the floor."

The industry will likely not see a lumber market recovery until at least 2010, and financial returns for firms based in western Canada will hit record lows

idling mills

» Campbell said more lumber production cuts were needed, but he acknowledged some firms face a difficult time idling mills because of strong demand for skilled labour from the energy industry in Alberta's oilsands.

this year, said Craig Campbell, a forest industry advisor at PricewaterhouseCoopers.

The North American lumber market is still oversupplied "even though it seems like we're reading an obituary weekly for a sawmill," Campbell told an industry gathering in Vancouver.

"There's going to be more (closures), more cash burn, more blood on the floor," Campbell said.

Canada supplies about one third of the softwood lumber for housing construction in the United States, and about half of that comes from British Columbia. REUTERS

Wings soar past Stars

Detroit takes series opener in Western finals

RED WINGS 4 STARS 1

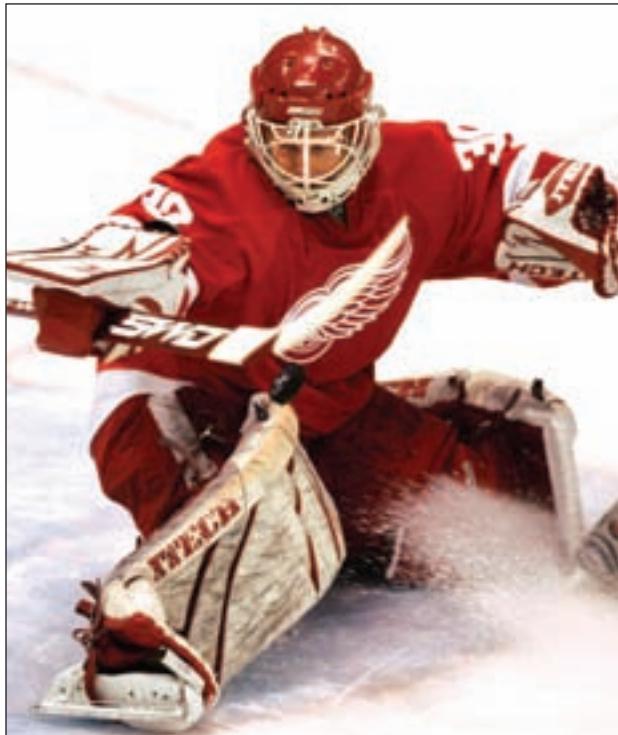

Tomas Holmstrom posted a goal and an assist, as the Detroit Red Wings downed the Dallas Stars, 4-1, last night in Game 1 of their Western Conference finals series from Joe Louis Arena.

Brian Rafalski, Johan Franzen and Valtteri Filppula also scored for the top-seeded Red Wings, who will host Game 2 tomorrow night. Nicklas Lidstrom and Niklas Kronwall both had two assists, while Chris Osgood ran his playoff record to 7-0 by stopping 20-of-21 shots.

"It was a good win, but we know we have to be better in the next game," Osgood said.

Brenden Morrow lit the lamp for the fifth-seeded Stars, while Marty Turco was victimized for four goals on 31 shots.

"I'm not worried about how the Red Wings played," Dallas coach Dave Tippett said. "I'm worried about how we played. We didn't play close to our capability. So give the Red Wings all the credit in the world.

They did what they had to do to win but we're going to have to be much better."

Detroit opened the scoring in the series with a power-play goal at the 4:28 mark of the first period. With a two-man advantage, Detroit needed only nine seconds to connect, as Lidstrom's slap shot from the top of the left circle rang off the far post and came out to the high slot, where Rafalski gathered the puck and snapped it past a screened Turco.

The red-hot Franzen continued where he left off in the second round, notching his league-leading 12th goal of the playoffs with 4:26 to play before the first intermission.

With the Red Wings skating a man up, Franzen parked himself in front of Turco and redirected Kronwall's blast between the pads of the Dallas netminder to give Detroit a 2-0 lead.

Detroit cashed in on the power play again at the 6:40 mark of the middle stanza. Henrik Zetterberg held the puck in at the blue line and dished to Lidstrom, whose shot from the left circle deflected off Holmstrom and in behind Turco.

He just seems to find a way." Nash, a Columbus Blue Jackets winger, has a knack for highlight-reel goals, for anyone who remembers him undressing two defencemen and a goalie against the Phoenix Coyotes back in January. He was at it again last night.

He muscled to the net off the left wing and tucked it wide on his backhand past the outstretched pad of Grotnes.

Nash called it a good "team-building game."

Norway has been the surprise of the tournament, taking Finland to overtime in the round robin, beating Germany, and edging out Slovakia for the final qualification spot.

"They played a great defensive game, they made it very hard to penetrate their system, but we needed to find a way earlier in the game," said Green, who had a goal and an assist.

Canada struggled on 10 power-play chances, but its penalty-kill shut down Norway with game on the line, taking care of five straight penalties, including multiple 5-on-3s.

Goalie Pascal Leclaire made 15 saves for Canada.

Team Canada survives a scare

Norway continues to be surprise team at Worlds

CANADA 2 NORWAY 1

By MATTHEW WUEST

Metro Halifax

This time, it was Rick Nash's turn to play late-game hero.

Canada continued to cut it close at the IIHF world championship yesterday, but Nash's game-winning goal with 3:58 left helped them narrowly escape with a 2-1 victory over underdog Norway before a crowd of 7,380 at the Metro Centre.

The win came just 48 hours after Canada beat the United States 5-4 on a last-minute goal from Dany Heatley.

Norway's stingy neutral-zone trap and a spectacular 50-save performance from goalie Pal Grotnes had the smallest home crowd of the tournament thinking overtime.

"It just comes down to desperation," defenceman Mike Green said. "We really needed a goal and we didn't want to go to overtime with these guys, with the way they play. It was a great play by Nash.

Riggers facing a 'dangerous' man

Calgary defence key to victory

By LAURENCE HEINEN
for Metro Calgary

The Calgary Roughnecks know all about "Dangerous" Dan Dawson.

After all, the Portland LumberJax forward earned his nickname for a reason.

Cordingley

"Dangerous is dangerous," explained Calgary forward Josh "Shooter" Sanderson heading into tomorrow night's clash between the Roughnecks and the LumberJax at the Saddledome (7:30 p.m.). "He can score from outside, he can score from inside. He's a tough check."

Sanderson hopes he can live up to his own nickname when the two teams clash in the National Lacrosse League's West Division final.

"With the offence we have, it could be any guy on any given night," said Sanderson, who the Riggers acquired at the trade deadline by shipping high-scoring forward Lewis Ratcliff to the Toronto Rock. "We just want everybody contributing for a win."

While the Riggers beat the Colorado Mammoth 15-13 in Denver last Saturday night to qualify for the West Final, the Jax travelled to San Jose the next day and handed the Stealth an 18-16 loss largely due to a seven-goal, five-assist performance by Dawson.

"He not only knows how to score, he's such a good set-up guy as well," said Calgary bench boss Troy Cordingley, who also coached Dawson in his hometown of Oakville, Ont.

Calgary assistant captain Andrew McBride said the entire defence corps will have to work together to shut down the Portland offence.

"We know that their whole offence revolves around Dan," said the all-star defenceman. "We're going to really try to dictate the play and not let him get into the flow. He's definitely our target. We've gone over a game plan and we've gone over some film and we're definitely going to have to try to shut him down to be successful."

Thanks to a four-game winning streak, the Roughnecks now find themselves in a position to qualify for the Champion's Cup, which will be hosted by either the Buffalo Bandits or the New York Titans.

"Everything just fell into place," McBride said. "Having a home game is just a huge boost for us."

Exclaim! takes music on road

Tour showcases independent rock

By AMANDA B. HAUPT
for Metro Calgary

Profile IF ANYONE DOUBTS the strength of Canadian music these days, one should look no further than the Exclaim! 16th Anniversary Tour for evidence that our homegrown independent music scene is thriving and shows no sign of slowing down.

The cross-country tour is underway with Tokyo Police Club — riding high as one of Canada's top indie groups — headlining along with supporting acts Attack In Black and Smoosh.

Ian Danzig, founder of Exclaim! — the free monthly magazine focusing on Canadian and international independent music — shared his thoughts with Metro recently on the success of the publication and tour.

Danzig chooses artists for the tour based on one simple factor: "Same way we choose the music that we write about in Exclaim!, which is music that we love, stuff that turns us on."

Numerous successful independent bands have graced national stages on previous tours, including Arcade Fire and DJ Champion. Danzig equates Tokyo Police Club to Broken Social Scene. "The very first EP from Tokyo that came into our office, we immediately were unbelievably impressed ... and we were immediately covering them so they're a band that was always on our radar to have on the tour, well before the buzz really built up."

Tokyo Police Club's debut full-length effort, Elephant Shell, has felt long-awaited to their fans, but as drummer Greg Alsop points out the band wanted to "work the EP (2006's A Lesson in Crime) as much as possible.

"None of us had really expected that the EP would go to the lengths that it did," he says. "We were able to tour off it for awhile ... more people kept discovering it and we were able to keep gaining opportunities off it. We were never able to really sit down and devote the time that we felt we needed to Exclaim! live ...

» The Exclaim! Anniversary tour hits town for a pair of gigs at the Warehouse Saturday and Sunday.

writing, since we were on the road all the time."

Elephant Shell is an infectious record that continues Tokyo's tradition of songs sprinting to the finish line while incorporating hand claps and daring listeners to sit still.

Consisting of Alsop, guitarist Josh Hook, Dave Monks on bass and vocals, and Graham Wright on keys and vocals, the band "takes everything on a song-by-song basis." Alsop admits "as a whole collective the album ends up turning out different than the EPs, but not really through a conscious decision."

When asked if Tokyo is happy with the end result, the drummer enthuses, "Yeah, very, we're really proud of it actually. It took a while to get there and a lot of hard work, but yeah we're really pleased with the result and hope other people are as well."

Vegas just a formulaic bore

What Happens In Vegas

Stars Cameron Diaz, Ashton Kutcher
Director Tom Vaughan

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Calgary

REVIEW ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME THAT Ashton Kutcher's 15 minutes of fame perished — or at least diminished to the stature of, say, Pauly Shore?

I mean, if he makes one more substandard romantic comedy, wouldn't the end have to be nigh for ol' Kutch?

Well surprise! His latest, What Happens in Vegas is an accessible, but formulaic groaner about two unlikely people falling in love through their utter contempt of each other.

It actually starts out promisingly: When an underachiever named Jack (Kutcher) blasts off to Vegas, he meets recently-dumped Joy (Cameron Diaz) and the pair get hitched in one night of drunken debauchery. In the morning, the duo agree to annul the union until Jack wins a $3 million jackpot with Joy's quarter.

The film quickly loses steam when the pair return to Manhattan (early on) where a pro-marital judge (Dennis Miller) sentences the disgruntled couple to "six months hard marriage" to decide who gets the dough.

Now, Kutcher and Diaz have an acceptable amount of chemistry, but unfortunately this is the type of film where the characters are so baseless that Joy's feelings for Jack pretty much switch from pure repulsion to adulated affection just because she finds out he coaches little league softball. Aww, he is a good guy!

The truth is, this comedy could have been fun (as it is while in Vegas) but ends up reducing potentially interesting gags to simple platitudes (Jack urinates in a sink of dirty dishes, Joy shows Jack how to work the toilet seat, etc).

Even worse, it thinks it's clever when Jack dons a black eye to fake he's being abused for a marriage counsellor. Yikes. Imagine if that joke were the other way around? This film is unconvincing, ordinary and even slightly offensive.

Careful Ashton, I think your Vegas is showing.

as no shocker that this same name, Speed Racer stars Emile Hirsch (Into the Wild) as Speed, a talented young driver living in the shadow of his older brother's racing death.

After learning that big business is fixing and profiting from racing, Speed teams up to win a notorious rally and bankrupt the lead corporation tampering the sport. Like many family films, it's a fairly simple story-line full of wholesome ideals makes pancakes!).

But on some level, it's refreshingly more "progressive" with its anti-corporate stance, an ultra-violent ninja battle and a pre-teen who throws up a rebellious middle finger at the bad guy. As for the cast, I think they put in great performances but it's hard to tell since they (and you) are bombarded by the visuals, which not only end up being Speed Racer's boon but also its burden. Although Speed Racer takes you into a world of intense colour and pop art that is dazzling to witness, it can be slightly exhausting after 129 minutes. Like tasting Pop Rocks as a kid, you'll be blown away at the new sensation but eating too much of that fizzy candy can give you a toothache.

A thinking person's fight film

Redbelt

Stars Chiwetel Ejiofor, Tim Allen

Director David Mamet

14A

By CHRIS ATCHISON
for Metro Calgary

REVIEW LEAVE IT TO legendary playwright David Mamet to deliver a truly cerebral martial arts film.

Redbelt — Mamet's latest writing-directing effort — has some memorable fight scenes, but all are carried out with an eye to plot and thematic progress, rather than an all-out fists-of-fury extravaganza. Take note hardcore fans: This is not your average martial arts movie. The film follows Brazilian Jiu Jitsu instructor Mike Terry (American Gangster's Chiwetel Ejiofor) as he struggles to keep his school afloat while his personal bank account takes a beating. An unlikely turn of events brings Terry in contact with film star Chet Frank (Wild Hogs' Tim Allen) who offers the instructor co-producing duties on his latest film and gives him an expensive gift as a thank you for aid in a bar fight.

Another set of unfortunate circumstances — and there are many in Redbelt — forces Terry into the ring against his better judgment to compete for cash to save his business and his honour.

Fans of ass-kicking martial arts films will likely find only a few moments of

pleasure in Mamet's pet project, while those who prefer brains over brawn will revel in the auteur's latest work. The director, himself a purple belt in jiu jitsu, reportedly wanted to create a samurai-style film that would make the renowned Japanese film-maker Akira Kurosawa proud. While Kurosawa's passing in 1998 makes it impossible to tell if Mamet accomplished his goal, what's clear is that he's produced a definitively complex film that puts a fresh spin on an old genre.

The consistently versatile Ejiofor is mesmerizing as the conflicted Terry, while Tim Allen is entertaining as the shady actor Chet Frank whose motivations are clouded at best throughout most of the picture. British actress Emily Mortimer delivers an enigmatic performance as a frazzled lawyer, but it's jiu jitsu itself which provides one of Mamet's most valuable narrative tools.

Filmmaker asks public for funds

CANADIAN An aspiring Canadian filmmaker is asking the public at large to help fund his first movie project, one frame at a time.

Casey Walker launched a website earlier this year to raise $1 million and is selling frames of his yet-to-be-made film over the Internet for $10 a piece.

In return, investors will receive a credit in his movie, advertisement rights on his site and a cut of the profits if the film makes money.

So far he has sold more than 17,000 frames, bringing in about $170,000, including the biggest single sale at $52,560. Walker also has attracted investors from the United States and Europe. REUTERS

Mr. Darcy rescues haggard Hunt

Then She Found Me

Stars Helen Hunt, Colin Firth

Director Helen Hunt

14A

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Calgary

REVIEW EIGHT YEARS

AGO, Helen Hunt seemed to be everywhere. But her appearances onscreen have been scarce since then — most of her time has been spent starting a family and, apparently, trying to make this film about a woman trying to start a family of her own. Hunt plays April, a school teacher who discovers after a year of marriage that her younger husband (Matthew Broderick) is still too much of a boy to handle the rigorous banality of married life. But a hopeful possibility presents itself the next morning, in the shape of a single dad at her school (Colin Firth). What follows is a tentative romance, which might have been too slight for a whole film, so April has to cope with rejection, new love and an unexpected pregnancy while fending off the attentions of Bernice (Bette Midler), the birth mother who has chosen to reconnect with her long lost daughter. Hunt throws herself into the early scenes, looking more drawn and haggard than one can imagine any Hollywood agent wanting to see their client. When Firth shows up, however — Mr. Darcy, for Pete's sake! — we know that solace, or at least some more flattering lighting, lies ahead for April, after the rocky road.

Helen Hunt stars and directs in Then She Found Me.

Ledger portrait wins prize

A PORTRAIT of a brooding Heath Ledger, painted shortly before the Australian actor died in January, was voted the most popular painting in Australia's top art prize for portraiture Thursday.

Ledger, 28, best known for his role as a conflicted gay cowboy in the 2005 movie Brokeback Mountain, died of an accidental overdose of prescription drugs in New York on Jan. 22.

Artist Vincent Fantauzzo, 29, had been friends with Ledger for many years and painted his work in Ledger's hometown of Perth late last year.

"I wanted it to be dealing with self, your own consciousness and your thoughts," said Fantauzzo.

The painting features a bare-chested Ledger against a black background, looking straight out of the canvas with two other images of the actor at the sides whispering into his ears.

Fantauzzo's painting was a finalist in the 2008 Archibald Prize, Australia's top prize for portraiture, but he missed out on the top award, which went to a self-portrait of an artist with her two children.

Behind Speed's scenes

Green screens and gimbals

By RICK MCGINNIS
for Metro Calgary

APART FROM watching all 52 of the original Japanese Speed Racer cartoons, Emile Hirsch describes preparing for the title role in the Wachowskis Brothers' movie adaptation as pretty effortless.

"I didn't actually drive a race car," Hirsch recalls at a press event held last month at the Long Beach Grand Prix, "but me and my buddy Frankie, we went to the NASCAR simulator at Universal City Walk, which was fun, and we beat a bunch of tourists. It was like, Hollywood 2, Idaho o."

Christina Ricci, who plays Trixie, Hirsch's love interest in the film, recalls that working on a green screen set into which the backgrounds would be inserted digitally was a bonding experience for the cast, which included Susan Sarandon, John Goodman and Matthew Fox.

"A lot of our stuff early in the shooting was all family stuff, so it was all ensemble, and it was all of us together, and you walk onto the set and you see all of us dressed in all these hilarious costumes, and it was 'Hey, what are we doing today?' It's snowing. 'Hey, Susan, did you know it was snowing now?' We'd be laughing, because it was sort of ridiculous, but we're committing to it. We don't know what's around us but we'll do what they tell us to."

With no real racing being filmed, the actors who drove in the break-neck race scenes that take up much of the film were strapped into mechanized gimbals that threw them around convincingly enough for the camera, an endurance test that left them with bruises at the end of the day.

"It was so much fun," recalls Ricci.

"I love doing that stuff, I love getting the battle scars. When you're in the gimbal you get banged around so much, and at one point I had to get out and throw up and then get back in because it's a lot of shaking and craziness. It was just really fun — I had a good time." Hirsch's memories aren't so fond.

"All of my anger in the film when I'm driving was authentic, because they were just slamming me around in this simulator for hours and it's green and it's hot and there's lights on you and you can't move because you're strapped in. You get literally frustrated to the point where you want to rip the thing apart with a bat. I think I have a drawing of me breaking it."

With so much of the film realized later, after the filming was over, Ricci says that the actors had to trust the Wachowskis and the vision they were creating.

"I don't think that anyone could really get into what they have in their heads," she says.

"That's the thing about them, is they inspire such confidence and such trust, because you can tell they have this complete vision in their heads and you'd be doing a huge disservice to not trust them and let them do what they have to do."

Hunt finds directorial debut

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Calgary

FEATURE AFTER WHAT seems like a long hiatus from movies, Helen Hunt has returned in her own directorial debut, Then She Found Me, a low-budget story about a woman forced to cope with more than she's probably equipped to handle — a divorce, pregnancy, a new romance, and the sudden reappearance of her birth mother.

Hunt, whose trademark flinty vulnerability was showcased in films like As Good As It Gets and on TV's Mad About You, plays the lead role, April, with a remarkable lack of ego — she might be the centre of the story, but she never dominates the action, and the cast Hunt assembled around her has plenty of room to breathe. Hunt says she's been trying to make the film for years, first with an eye to just doing the role of April, then letting someone else handle the part when she decided she wanted to direct. "I always knew that my personality might very well be suited to directing," Hunt tells me in a phone interview. "But I also knew that it was too big and exhausting a job to do just to do, which was to say for the privilege of saying action and cut and bossing people around. It wasn't worth it.

Helen Hunt, director and star of Then She Found Me, says she always knew her personality was suited for directing.

But I knew that if I found a story that I had a real sense of authorship over and that I had something, a small but potent something that only I could say, then I would try to do it." In the end, she was forced to take on both acting and directing duties. After living with the character for so many years, it simply didn't seem feasible to pass the burden of playing April on to someone else.

"The decision became logistical ... I don't think I could have asked another actress to work 24 hours a day. I don't think I had the time to download what I knew about this part into another person's brain."

Considering the budget restrictions, Hunt was able to pull together a stellar cast, with cameo roles by friends like Tim Robbins and Janeane Garofalo in addition to having actors like Matthew Broderick, Colin Firth and Bette Midler play her ex-husband, new love and birth mother respectively. Their willingness to work on such a small project says a lot about the hunger for a human role in a decent script in Hollywood these days.

"I didn't have money to pay them, so they must have responded to the story."

"If you think about the actors who worked on this, as much as we like to make money and be rewarded for what we do, there is a hunger to work on stories that speak to us that is obviously bigger than that. There's no other reason why these people would have done it. I'm not that great a person that they would have just shown up for weeks at a time 'cause I'm nice."

Artsy heelings

The architectural marvel of sky high footwear

HAD ENOUGH of "it" bags?

Behold the statement shoe.

After seasons of the cultish trend of handbags fetching prices rivalling those of cars and women accumulating entire wardrobes of must-have purses, shoes are stepping into the limelight as the new coveted accessory.

But not just any ordinary pump will do. Footwear design has taken on bold architectural shapes with surreal, fantastical and sometimes downright bizarre heels.

"No one wants a basic black pump any more," says Barbara Atkin, vice-president of fashion direction at Holt Renfrew. "People are gravitating to heel art."

And some of the most spectacular heels that came down the runways for spring look exactly like that — an object of art.

Miuccia Prada sent out a sensuous velvet shoe with an art nouveau-influenced floral stalk as a heel, the perfect accompaniment to the erotic pixies featured in the prints on her clothing.

Architectural marvels were noticeable at Marni, where platforms had the sharp edges of a skyscraper, and at Jil Sander the nail-thin heel was held in place by a criss-cross of lattice resembling scaffolding.

Fendi's heel was a metal cage that encased what appeared to be a glass column.

But the pump reached the height of perversity at Marc Jacobs. He went the surrealist route and showed a high-heel shoe with the heel missing, leaving the shoe seemingly suspended in mid-air, with the heel protruding horizontally from the toes.

« No one wants a basic black pump any more... People are gravitating to heel art. »

Barbara Atkin, vice-president of fashion direction at Holt Renfrew

"Surrealism is about looking at something in a new and different way," says Atkin. "And fashion is about fantasy. It's taking everyday things and twisting it up and bring it back in a new way. It's all about escape."

When it comes to the complex relationship between a woman and her shoes, part of that escapist fantasy probably started in childhood.

"It's a Cinderella complex. Subconsciously, as little girls reading fairy tales, the symbolism is there," Atkin says. "We are fascinated by that glass slipper left behind. It can only fit one person and it's fit for a queen."

A visit to Toronto, Ont.'s Bata Shoe Museum shows surreal-looking shoes are not exactly a new invention.

"Extremes of fashion for the sake of fashion in footwear is nothing new. It's been around quite awhile," says museum curator Elizabeth Semmelhack. She cites examples like the extended pointed-toe footwear of the Middle Ages and the towering chopines worn by Venetian women in the 16th century.

Even that flower heel Prada shoe referenced 1970s Italian shoe designer Andrea Pfister, whose designs had shoes perched on heels in the shape of vegetables.

And the platform, another extreme footwear trend, curiously was in fashion throughout World War II, came back during the Vietnam War and is popular again today, as conflicts rage in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Ousted idol 'ready to go' lyrics to a song like Bob Dylan's Mr. Tambourine Man is something eliminated American Idol competitor Jason Castro won't ever forget.

And after the fumble he made this week singing the song, it's a wonder Castro isn't being hard on himself. But during a conference call with journalists, Castro seemed rather chipper and very much at ease.

"I was ready to go either way, whatever they gave me. And when they gave me that ... I just felt really relieved, like the pressure was off," said Castro, 20, from Rockwall, Tex. "You know, I loved my time on there, and I would have liked to go farther, but I don't think I could've handled it, you know, so I'm content."

One reporter told the former Top 4 contestant that judge Simon Cowell had said he thought Castro forgot the words on purpose because he was ready to go home.

But that wasn't the case. The stress of having to learn two songs this week weighed him down. Missing his family or his girlfriend wasn't something that made him want to get voted off the show on purpose, just so he could go home.

"I definitely did not do that on purpose, I couldn't believe I forgot such a popular line, something that's written on your soul — somehow it slipped my mind," he said. "It just came down to my inexperience."

But Castro's not going home just yet. Next week, he said he's going to New York with his fellow competitors, attending the finale and then getting ready for the American Idol tour.

Dance judges seek X-factor in Calgary

TV show holding tryouts Monday

By SANDY CAETANO
for Metro Calgary

CALLING ALL Calgarians — if dancing is your thing, move your feet to the beat and bust a move at the So You Think You Can Dance Canada auditions.

The SYTYCD Canada audition team is making its way into Calgary Monday. So put on your dancing shoes and a hip outfit and head down to the MacEwan Conference & Event Centre (2500 University Drive N.W.). People coming out to audition should be there for 9 a.m. to be guaranteed an audition.

Auditions are open to all Canadians who, as of April 1st, are of the age of majority in the province/territory in which they live, and are no older than 30 years of age.

Sean Cheesman, Calgary native and current host and lead judge of the U.K.

dance competition Dirty Dancing: Time of Your Life, will be making his debut as a special guest judge for the Calgary auditions.

Cheesman says one of the things that bring competitors down during any competition is trying to be something they're not. They're not looking for actors or wacky characters, unless your personality really is off the wall.

"Don't try to give us what you think we are looking for because we won't know until we see it," he says. "That X-factor comes from within. There is only one of you."

Another thing to remember is to try to be as calm as possible, since being anxious and letting your butterflies get the best of you can handicap you from doing your best. Take a deep breath and relax.

"I feel the first thing they need to do to prepare for the audition is to remember that, we, the judges, are on their side," he says. "We want them to do well, so get those nerves in check."

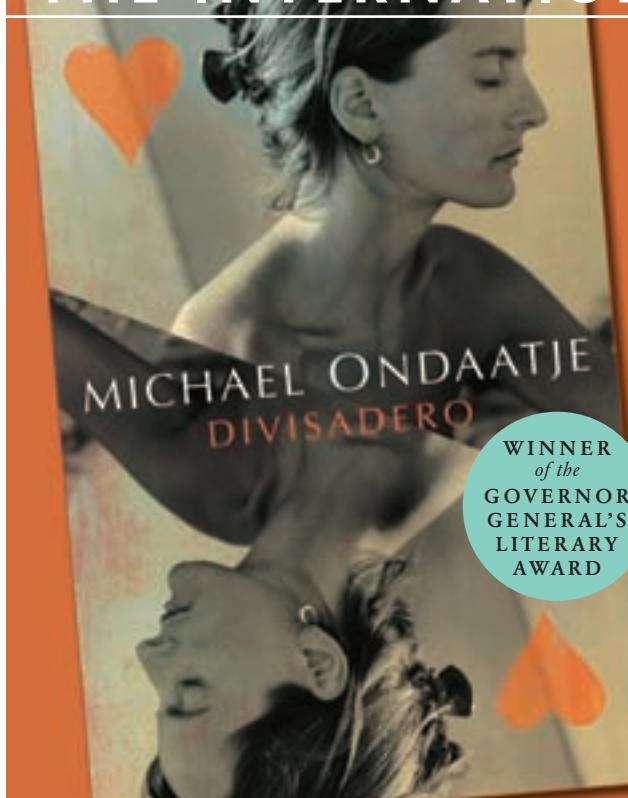

One important fashion tip for all aspiring dancers is don't show up in dance clothes. Whether it's ballet, jazz, tap or salsa, Cheesman believes you'll look a lot cooler in real clothes.

Lastly, don't forget why you've come out to audition in the first place — your passion for music and of course for dancing.

"My last tip is when you're dancing, always remember why you love to dance," adds Cheesman. "You can learn steps and even fake it, but you can never learn or fake passion. This is what makes the difference between a good dancer and a great dancer. And, of course, listen to the music, dance with it and not on top of it."

outdo each other with their knowledge of obscure indie bands and Japanese pop culture.

Those kids are already out there, of course, and it's no surprise to learn via a story on the ABC News website that they've already embraced the show — with a bit of chemical facilitation. A group of friends at Georgia Southern University meet three times a week to watch the show, while a student at a Washington community college says that he appreciates the show for its "randomness."

"When I first saw it I thought it was the funniest thing — I almost started crying," he said. "If I had to describe (the show) to people, I'd have to say it's a mix of Bonanza meets Sesame Street."

Or The McLaughlin Report meets Rollerball. Or the Banana Splits meets 60 Minutes. Or Frasier meets the Summer Olympics. No, totally, I know what you mean.

Probably because they no longer need their parents to help pay their rent and tuition, older fans of the show said that they usually watched the show while high. "It's a good stoner television show, because it's not difficult to understand since it's made for children and there are lots of bright colors and good music," said Tracie Egan, an editor who writes a column called Pot Psychology for the popular women's gossip blog Jezebel.com.

The show's creators said they're happy that an additional audience has attached it self to the show. "I guess anyone else watching wants to be fun and silly and be in touch with their inner preschooler — and check out some cool bands, too," said Scott Schultz, who created the show with Christian Jacobs.

Nick Jr., which greenlit a second season, is currently developing a line of merchandise to promote the show, much of it likely suitable for both older and younger fans. I'm thinking DJ Lance Rock messenger bags, Foofa wallet chains, Toodee trucker caps and a Plex keychain with a secret compartment where you can put, uh, stuff.

YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY, BABY: This Tuesday's paper will feature the 500th Idiot Box column, and my 1000th TV column for Metro. Pretty good for a guy who only watches Quincey reruns, don't you think?

June Cleaver tops list of favourite moms

Cosby Show's Claire Huxtable comes in second

June Cleaver, the mother in the popular 1950s television show Leave It To Beaver, tops the list of Americans' favourite mothers, according to a new Harris poll.

More than 2,500 Americans questioned in the online poll ranked Mrs. Cleaver as the mom they would most like to have had when they were growing up.

Claire Huxtable of The Cosby Show was second, followed by Carol Brady of The Brady Bunch.

The survey also showed women preferred lawyer Huxtable, who was on televi-

Other TV moms on the list included Marion Cunningham of Happy Days, Donna Stone of The Donna Reed Show and Harriet Nelson, from The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet. Modern moms like Roseanne Connor of Roseanne, Lorelei Gilmore of The Gilmore Girls and Marge Simpson of The Simpsons all tied at the bottom of the list.

Star snaps back

Jeff Gentner /Getty Images

Star Jones is speaking out against broadcast journalist Barbara Walters for including her in her new memoir, Audition, usmagazine.com reports.

In the book, Walters claims Jones forced her to lie about her gastric bypass surgery on the talk show The View. Walters also reveals she had an affair with then-married Sen. Edward Brooke during the 1970s.

Jones has something to say about it.

"It is a sad day when an icon like Barbara Walters, in the sunset of her life, is reduced to publicly branding herself as an adulterer, humiliating an innocent family with accounts of her illicit affair and speaking negatively against me all for the sake of selling a book," Jones says. "It speaks to her true character." Metro News Services

Mariah opens up about marriage

Singer Mariah Carey has confirmed she has tied the knot with actor Nick Cannon, BBC News Online reports.

"We really do feel we are soulmates — I never felt a love like this was in the cards for me," the 38-year-old told People magazine.

Carey confirmed the pair married on April 30 in the Bahamas following a two-month romance. The pop diva met Cannon, 27, while shooting the music video for her single Bye Bye.

"It was a love-at-first-sight thing. Since we've been together, we've been inseparable," Cannon said.

Amy free on bail

Singer Amy Winehouse has been released on bail after being arrested on suspicion of drug offences, BBC News Online reports.

The 24-year-old was held after police were handed a video which allegedly showed her taking drugs.

A Metropolitan Police (Met) spokesman said the arrest was in connection with a video of the star passed to the force in January this year.

On Jan. 22, The Sun newspaper published pictures allegedly showing the star smoking crack cocaine.

Winehouse's spokesman had said in a statement that Winehouse was co-operating with police inquiries.

Heigl to leave Grey's?

Katherine Heigl is considering leaving the hit TV show Grey's Anatomy to concentrate on her film career, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

Heigl, who has found success in the comedies Knocked Up and 27 Dresses — is said to be keen to end her contract with the medical drama to focus entirely on movies.

"She's working really long hours and is ready to move on," a source close to the actress said. "She saw what can happen with someone like Jennifer Aniston ... she tested the waters early."

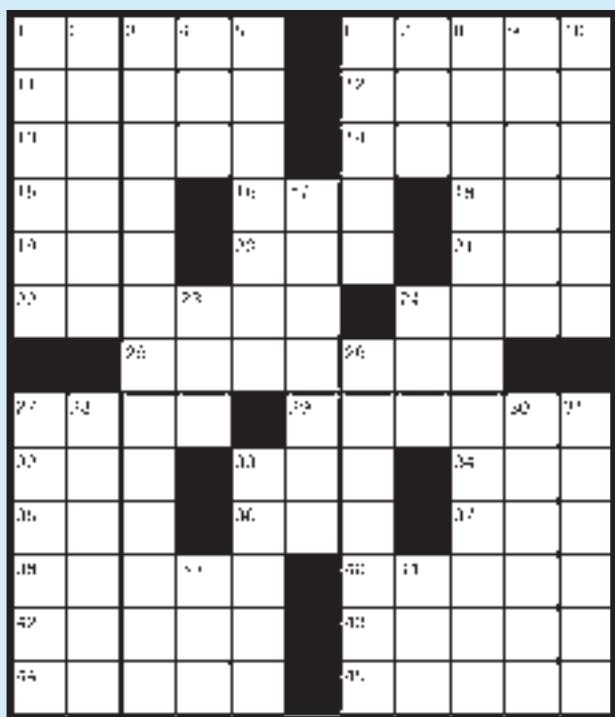

However, Heigl, who made headlines when negotiations for her contract renewal on the show were made public 15 months ago, may be locked into her contract and will have to continue starring as Dr. Isobel Stevens.

"I don't think she'll be able to get out of it," the source added to Us Weekly magazine.
